An Evening With The Stars

Who is not fascinated by the stars? In this 50th year since man landed on the moon we are joining Usk Astronomical Society and Mars Astronomical Research Society for a fascinating look at the night sky and recent developments in the world of space exploration. After a talk and opportunity for questions there will be a brief pause for refreshments then, weather permitting, we will pop outside where telescopes will be available to view the stars with help from the experts.
